Content

Ramón, a young Mexican man, flees poverty and violence in his homeland and dreams—like so many others—of America, “land of opportunity.” But after several failed attempts to cross the border, he takes an unusual step: he flies to Germany. Without money, language skills, or a place to stay, he ends up stranded in Wiesbaden in the middle of winter.

When everything seems hopeless, he meets Ruth, an older woman who is just as lonely. An unexpected friendship forms between them—an encounter that changes both of their lives forever.
